Two strangers bound for Whitsundays after winning Travello competition

Tom Cunningham and Natalie Otto have scored the trip of the lifetime after winning a Travello competition, and the Whitsundays has made the travel itinerary for the lucky pair. This is a trip with a twist however, with the Aussie adventurers being complete strangers.

Mr Cunningham from country Victoria and Ms Otto from the USA were the winners in Travello's recent $25,000 Aussie Adventure competition which will see them travel across Australia for seven weeks.

The pair beat out hundreds of video entries and interview rounds to be crowned the lucky winners of the competition.

The travel itinerary, which kicks off this week, also includes venturing to Cape Tribulation, Sydney, Adelaide and up to Uluru. The entire trip will take the pair on a 5,500km journey across the country.

The pair will get to see all the beauty that the Whitsundays has to offer, with the region set to feature heavily in their travels.

Mr Cunningham and Ms Otto will stay in the Whitsundays for almost a week, arriving on October 28.

As well as snorkeling and visiting the beautiful islands dotted around the Whitsundays, the pair will take a scenic flight over the Great Barrier Reef, get up close and personal with the marine life of the reef and enjoy a relaxing sailing trip.

Tourism Whitsundays Chief Executive Officer said it was great to see the Whitsundays make the destination list for their exciting Australian adventure.

"This opportunity will provide great domestic and global exposure for our region and I know the two adventurers will be blown away with the beauty of the Whitsundays during their stay," she said.
